London Development Trust provides the strategic means by which the community and those who seek to improve it can make change which is mutually beneficial and sustainable. Our primary function is to connect organisations; empower the local community; make available space; influence the powerful.

Our approach ensures those in the community have the capacity to determine how their community can change for the better. For the voluntary, private and public sectors this means – costs savings, value for money; community support; increased social impact. London Development Trust has summarised how it will achieve its vision under these 5 categories.

Connecting the Dots – Too many organisations with similar objectives, whether from the public, private and voluntary sectors, work in isolation. We provide the practical means by which partners can easily work together for mutual benefit. As well as this London Development Trust provides the mechanism for delivery for organisations wishing to implement the Social Value and Localism Acts.

This is done by:

- Using our experience and track record to lead or participate in collaborative funding bids
- Leading local collective committees
- Using our established network to create new partnering opportunities for local organisations
- Using our extensive networks to ensure that projects reach their intended participants and beneficiaries.

Empowering the Community – Our primary function is not to ‘do’ community development, but to enable individuals and groups to take ownership of their future. We do this by:
Directly providing expertise, training, resources and finance to local people and community groups.
Ensuring this approach is embedded in the exit strategy of local initiatives.

Creating the Space – Safe, accessible space is a key element in the successful delivery of our objectives. Not only does LDT own and manage space, we also seek to influence others in providing spaces in a way which is open, transparent and with clear and measurable community benefit.

Influencing the Powerful – London Development Trust uses evidence-based research and practical examples from the myriad of projects delivered under our umbrella to influence those who make policy and plans which affect our community.

Organisational Independence: Excellence and Sustainability – LDT is a professionally staffed organization which drives the other 4 Keystones.
